Peaceful Conflict Resolution

Goal: To help children resolve conflicts nonviolently

To teach your family how to solve conflicts in a peaceful manner, practice conflict resolution at home. For example, when a conflict arises: 1) Have everyone involved state their needs and wants without blaming others; 2) Have everyone really listen and try to understand each other; 3) Stay focused on the conflict at hand; don't bring up other conflicts' 4) Emphasize creative problem solving and new solutions; 5) Negotiate until you reach a win-win result. In addition, allow family members to leave the discussion when they're too angry to resolve the conflict peacefully and agree on a time to reconvene and try again. Talk about small conflicts before they become big problems. Finally, teach your children that hitting, pushing, kicking or other violent behaviors are not OK! This goes for adults in the family, too.

Identity Theft Preventive Measures

Identity theft is on the rise. If you suspect you might already be a victim, contact the Social Security Administration at 1-800-772-1213 or at www.socialsecurity.gov

If your identity is still your own, consider the following preventive measures to ensure it'll stay that way:

- 1) Don't give out your Social Security number, credit card number or any other personal information over the telephone unless you initiated the call.
- 2) Before revealing any personal information by telephone, confirm the caller is who they say they are by asking for their name, address and telephone number or even calling the Consumer Protection at 1-801-530-6601. Also ask them why they need it, how it will be used or how they protect it from being stolen.
- 3) Don't put your Social Security number on your personal checks.
- 4) Cut back on the number of credit cards or forms of identification you carry.
- 5) Before throwing them out, tear up or shred papers with personal information, credit card receipts, bank statements, expired credit cards and pre-approved credit offers.

What children need to know if a fire starts:

Fires are scary, loud and confusing. Fires can burn very fast. Smoke can make a room very dark. Never hide or take time to get pets, toys or other belongings. Follow your escape plan.

Escape Plan:

Don’t crawl on your belly because some heavier poisons from the fire could settle in a thin layer on the floor. Feel doors with the back of your hand before opening them. If a door feels hot, it could have a fire on the other side. Go to your second exit and get out of the building as fast as you can. Meet outside to make sure everyone is safe and then call 911 for help. NEVER go back in the building for anything.

If a cooking fire starts:

Put a lid on it. Carefully slide a lid over a pan that catches fire and turn off the stove burner. Be sure to leave the lid on until it’s completely cooled. Keep an oven or microwave door shut if a fire starts. Turn off the heat. If flames don’t go out immediately, call the fire department. Know how to use a fire extinguisher. Not all fire extinguishers are alike. They are designed for specific fire types. Make sure you have a clear escape route and call the fire department before trying to put out a small fire. Water and grease don’t mix. Never pour water on a grease fire! Water causes grease fires to spread.
